Intermediate control is defined as the use of baton, chemical agents, or the department's taser devices. Of the reported sixteen (16) uses of force during 2009, officers used intermediate control on nine (9) incidents. This is a 57% decrease from 2008. The primary device used during these types of incidents was the taser. The percentage of male suspects involved in the use of force remained consistent for 2008 and 2009. As a result of these use of force incidents there were (8) reported suspects injured (injuries appeared to be minor, primarily bruises and abrasions), and (2) officers. Twenty (20) different officers were involved in use of force incidents during 2009; six (6) officers were involved in multiple incidents. The only deadly force incident involved the termination of an injured deer pursuant to departmental policy. The Department's Training Officer reviewed all incidents and determined that all of these incidents were in compliance with departmental policy, and training guidelines.
