December 2020 Tax Sale Cancelled

ORANGEBURG, S.C. – Due to the rise of COVID-19 cases, and with over 400 registered bidders from states and counties identified as hotspot areas, County Administration made the decision to cancel the upcoming delinquent tax sale, originally scheduled for December 7, 2020. We did not make this decision lightly. The County cannot, in good conscience, bring together a large group of people with varying degrees of susceptibility during flu season, and who are coming from hotspot areas. This decision was also made to protect the healthcare resources (i.e. EMS, hospital beds, etc.) our citizens may need as we are in the midst of a COVID-19 surge. The County will continue to closely evaluate COVID-19's hotspots so we can determine a date to safely reschedule the sale.

The County will continue to update our citizens and bidders as more information becomes available.
